VOLUME 27

Entered at the Post Office at Janesville, Wis., as second-class matter.

It is a strange yet when the democrats don't make blunders enough to get defeated.

It has been said that the Northern Pacific led from nothing to nowhere. This is a terrible libel on Duluth, a place that gave conception to the great speech of Proctor Knott.

Some of the papers are publishing portraits of Mr. Langtry, the husband of the Lily. They say it is a good portrait. If that is true, it is no wonder the Lily won't live with him.

William B. Strong has resigned the presidency of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad on account of ill-health. He gave that company the benefit of his rare genius just at a time when it was most needed, and thus made it one of the most successful railroads on the continent.

When Annie Louise Carr, now Mrs. Raymond, was on the top of Mt. Washington the other day, there was a dense fog hanging over the mountain. She felt somewhat disappointed, and turning to her husband she said, "I would give fifty dollars to the marine general hospital if this fog would lift." Providence didn't want the hospital to lose the money, and in less than half an hour the fog lifted, and the marine hospital got fifty dollars.

There is a conflict between Postmaster General Gresham and the state court of Louisiana. That court has ordered the postmaster at New Orleans to deliver all mail matter addressed to the New Orleans national bank into the lottery company, and has been especially directed to obey this order until it shall have been reversed or modified by the proper authorities. We shall soon see whose authority is superior—that of Mr. Gresham or the Louisiana state court.

The prognostications are out for the coming winter. Vendors predict the winter will be warm open and wet, with little or no snow during the close of the year. The winter will be an exceptional one with severe storms on the lakes. Wiggins and Tice have not been heard from but Professor Mandell, of Rock Island, says that in the coming December the temperature will average above the mean of the season. It will be rather a pleasant winter month, with a few sharp storms, producing heavy snows in the north and a few heavy rains in the central and southeastern states.

The London World indulges in this criticism of May Anderson: "Something will perhaps always have to be forgiven her in relation to her accent and pronunciation, which strikes the ear however, not so much as American as French—at any rate, they are not purely English; with Miss Anderson, the word 'forgive' becomes almost 'for-give,' and 'him' 'hem,' and so on. Is this defect remediable? This criticism may be fair enough, but just wait till Henry Irving appears before an American dramatic critic. The little defects in Anderson's accent and pronunciation will fall into insignificance compared with the broad accent and mixed up pronunciation of the greatest tragedian England has produced since Macready."

We notice the following in the Manitowishwaukee Tribune, whose editor did good service in the war of the rebellion:

"There are men in this county who have secured pensions on the ground of permanent disability from sickness contracted whilst in the service, and from which they claim to be now suffering, but are well enough to be admitted to manual insurance companies where perfect health is the first requirement. Now one thing is plain, either the government or the insurance companies are being defrauded."

This is not at all surprising, as the commissioner of pensions considers that very many thousands on the pension rolls are fraudulent. If this is to be permitted to remain on the status of the pension roll, it would be as well, in order to make all things even, to grant the pension now before congress, and give a pension to every soldier."

There are those who believe that the Arctic explorations should be continued, and that all countries should contribute lavishly toward paying the costs of the expeditions. So far probably no practical good has come from the many searches for the north pole. Many lives have been lost and hundreds of thousands of dollars have been expended and seemingly to the public, to no purpose. There is no doubt that the Arctic region is a wonderful phenomenon, and what is beyond is as hard to guess, as is the looking into the future. Eternal ice-borgs toll Sir John Franklin, Elsie Kent Knapp, Captain Hall, Captain De Long, and the Greeley party, that so far shall they go but no farther, and that the attempt to break through the mountains of ice and pierce the polar sea, ends in death. But tens of thousands of lives and billions of money are sacrificed in useless war, and those who claim there is a beautiful sea, beyond the pole, can consistently demand that in this scientific search for the possibilities of the Arctic region, lives and money should be sacrificed.

Messrs. Jansen, McClurg & Co., Chicago, have in press a volume by the Hon. George W. Julian, called "Political Republicans, 1840 to 1872." The author is widely known throughout this country, he having been during most of this period named a conspicuous figure in American politics. One of the earliest and most uncompromising of the anti-slavery leaders, the candidate for vice-president upon the free soil ticket in 1852, one of the founders of the republican party in 1856, and afterwards one of its most prominent and trusted leaders, a member of congress during the exciting period preceding and including the war, and during that great struggle one of President Lincoln's intimate advisers and a member of the famous congressional committee on the conduct of the war—no is well able, from such a career, to make of his recollections a most interesting and thrilling narrative. His style is a master of vigorous English well known and the language is personal throughout, giving to the work abundant piquancy and point. Censures and criticisms are freely dealt, and the author's impressions and knowledge of famous men and movements are given with an unreserved admission only after the lapse of time. With the present keen desire for definite information concerning events connected with the war and its political causes, Mr. Julian's narrative will find hosts of eager readers.

DEADLY DISASTER.

Fatal Plunge Down a Shaft by a Party of Workmen.

Terrific Boiler Explosion at Shreveport, La.—Railway Wreck on the O. & M.—The Dead and Wounded.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 24.—A terrible mine accident occurred at Kingston, two miles from this place. The shaft is down 400 feet, and for some time past a number of men have been timbering it from the bottom. While preparing a place to set timbers, the platform on which Edward Phillips, Thomas Davis, George Boggs, Isaac Bevens, Phillip Perry and a man named Lewis were standing went down. The latter grabbed a plank which was nailed to a shaft, thus saving himself. All the others went to the bottom. In the fall Perry was caught under the arm by a projecting plank, and held to it with a death-like grip until Thomas Williams, the foreman, and Andy Sweeney, and George Stewart went down the shaft in a bucket and rescued him from his perilous position. He was then taken up and driven to his home near Kingston, where his wounds were dressed. The rescuing party again descended the shaft to search for the other men. There being nineteen feet of water in the shaft, the search for the victims was slow. After seeking for the victims among the debris on the bottom of the large pit for several minutes, those in the bucket had to be hoisted to the surface to get grappling hooks to find the bodies of the unfortunate men. It was nearly 3 o'clock when Davis and Boggs were found. The latter was wedged in between heavy timbers in the water. When he was lifted to the bucket the blood was running from his nose and ears. The men descended again to find the bodies of the others. After groping for several minutes Davis' body was brought up. The corpse was found in the dump and bore no bruises. No sooner had the remains of Davis been taken to his home than the bucket was again lowered. The other two bodies were found and taken out about an hour afterward. All leave families except Davis, who was a single man.

VICTIMS OF A BOILER EXPLOSION. SHREVEPORT, La., Sept. 24.—The boiler of the engine running the snow at bridge being constructed over the Red river for the Vicksburg, Shreveport & Pacific railroad exploded with terrific force, killing five men and wounding five others, who were at work as the night force. A boy named Willie Watts was the only person on the boat at the time of the explosion who escaped unhurt.

The following are the names of the killed: Al. Hunkley, James Summers, William Thomas, John Mallory, John Burke. All of these are white men. The wounded are Willie Jones, hurt slightly in the head; Abe Gilliland, colored, mortally wounded; A. D. Wilson, white, injured on head and breast; Al Watkins, white, scalded; a colored boy, Henry, slightly injured. The dead bodies are all in the river, which being dragged for them. The killed and wounded are from the following places: Jones, from Cincinnati; Wilson, from Junction City, Ky.; Watkins, from Parkersburg; Humphreys, from Mason City, Iowa; Summers, from Pierce City, Mo.; Burke, from Galveston.

Mr. Wilson says that the boiler was a new one of capacity for 2,500 horse-power. The night force, consisting of eleven men, were just about commencing work, when Thomas was a new hand at the machine, was ordered to start up. It was then noticed that the stay-bolt in the boiler was out and the steam escaping. He ran back and reported it, when Gilliland was ordered to pull the fire out of the furnace. He had removed one stick of wood when the explosion took place. Wilson ran several rods away from the boiler. He (Wilson) succeeded in getting hold of a pile, and endeavored to assist the others, when he saw seemingly swimming around, but several of them were drowned.

WRECK ON THE OHIO AND MISSISSIPPI. INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 24.—A special to The Journal gives very meager particulars of an accident on the Ohio & Mississippi road west of Seymour. Two passenger trains had been detained at this town by a freight wreck, and in going out the rear train ran into the former, smashing the sleepers and cars, and dangerously injuring a number of passengers, who were extricated from the wreck by the train men cutting away the debris with axes. The names of but few are known. J. W. Taylor, of Beechville, Ky., had both legs broken. Mrs. J. W. Taylor was fatally hurt internally. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor's little girl was badly bruised. Mrs. Taylor's father, Wiley Dickers, had a leg broken. R. H. Vinson, of Mississippi, had a leg broken. Larkin Phillips, the engineer of the rear train, was fatally injured. A number of other passengers were hurt, but nobody was killed outright so far as is known. The accident is attributed to the fact that the rear train, which was running very fast, was not properly flagged.

THE WABASH LINE.

A Rumored Default on Interest Flatly Denied.

New York, Sept. 24.—Among the rumors set afloat was one to the effect that the Wabash would default on the semi-annual interest on its bonds due Oct. 1. Upon inquiry at the Wabash office, the rumor is pronounced "utterly absurd," and it appears from the highest official authority of the road that there will be no default in any of the Wabash interest to fall due at any time this year. It will be remembered that a similar rumor was circulated in May in regard to the semi-annual interest on the $10,000,000 of the Wabash general mortgage to fall due June 1. The Wabash officials at that time gave the assurance that it would be promptly paid, and it was. There is no apparent reason to doubt their assurances now as regards future payments. The Wabash is certainly doing a better business, and is being operated at a less percentage of expense than it was then, there is no reason why it should not pay its fixed charges and carry something besides.

THE LIBERAL LEAGUE.

Close of the Milwaukee Convention—The Resolutions Adopted.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 24.—The third and closing day of the annual session of the congress of the National Liberal League was occupied mainly by addresses from different speakers. At the morning session Mrs. H. S. Lake, of California, spoke on heroes, instancing various heroes in the moral world, contrasting them with heroes in the military world to the manifest advantage of the former. J. C. Ransburg, of Atchison, Kan., followed in an address which was looked upon as one of the best of the session. The address was a study in statistics of the work of Christianity in the world and what it had done for the human race in contrast with what science had accomplished. At the opening of the afternoon session the committee on resolutions offered an additional series, which were adopted. The resolutions opened by the assertion that a priesthood had become an obstacle to reason and common sense in social progress, and is a constant menace to Republicanism and the administration of justice, and that the Liberal League declares war against theology. Here followed the resolutions in regard to taxing church property and the prohibition of the Bible and all sectarian worship, included in the resolutions of the first day's proceedings. The resolutions then go on to declare that the new era proclaims a "universal republic of man," upon the continuity and solidity of the human race; that this new congress has outlined the changes and reforms necessary to the accomplishment of a new social order; that this new order leaves no room for a Christian heaven, and that in this republic of man, which is to supersede the kingdom of God, the innocent Jesus will not be permitted to bear the sins of another. The resolutions further recognize the work of the liberal press, and tendered to the editor, Charles Bradburn, and his associate, Annie Besant, the admiration and esteem of the league for their efforts to secure justice and establish truth. The congress then listened to an address by Charles Watts, of London, England.

HARMONY ALL AROUND.

Gen. Slocum, of New York, on the Outlook.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—Gen. H. W. Slocum, of Brooklyn, N. Y., an old-time Democrat, and one of the ablest officers of the army of the Potomac, was seen by a reporter at the Grand Pacific hotel and was asked about the political horoscope. He said he believed both the Republican and Democratic parties in New York would be internally harmonious this fall, and that the Democrats both carry the state by a safe majority both this year and next. It looks to him as if the Republicans were going to combine to beat Butler in Massachusetts. He has not noted any special prominence acquired by Gov. Cleveland as a presidential possibility. Tilden, he sincerely thinks, will not be a candidate, saying that he believes Tilden's nearest friends when they make that announcement, general says that Dana, of the Sun, is as much in his confidence as anybody. Whether Mr. Dana is earnest in his advocacy of Mr. Holman is a question Gen. Slocum has not satisfactorily settled in his own mind, though Holman is greatly respected, he says, by eastern Democrats.

REPORT AMONG THE ESQUIMAUX THAT HE IS DEAD.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—P. Nordenskjöld telegraphs the following from Scramster to the press agent at London: "During my excursion on the inland ice Dr. Nathorst, with the steamer Sofia, in charge of Capt. Nilsson, anchored the 27th of July in the bay near Cape York, 75 degrees 5 minutes north. The doctor was accompanied from Godhavn by an Esquimaux interpreter named Hans Christian, who had met at Godhavn a party of fifteen Esquimaux from Wolstenholme. They stated that they had been in the company of other natives, the commander of the American expedition, whose name they pronounced 'Kasley,' and another member of the party which had arrived at a port north of Smith sound, were dead, and that the rest of the expedition had returned on sledges to Littleton island. Unfortunately this information was not given to Dr. Nathorst until he returned to Godhavn. He was a confirmed Christian, and his account seems to be reliable. Before starting northward the Sofia met, July 16, at Godhavn, the whaler Proteus, which intended to proceed to Littleton island, and, if necessary, not impeded by ice, to Lady Franklin bay. When the Sofia visited Smith sound that body of water was incumbered with ice."

CLAMORING FOR COERCION.

DUBLIN, Sept. 24.—Michael Davitt, says: The newspaper organs of the Landlord party are more loudly clamoring for the application of coercion. They have discovered that the spirit of the Land League is still abroad among us, now at a demonstration in Ulster and again appearing among the historic associations of Pallacreegan in county Limerick, and the direct consequences to the cause of "law and order" (not to landlording, of course) are predicted if Earl Spencer does not take steps to "lay the ghost" of the departed league immediately. The prospect is certainly not a cheering one for the system that has brought law and order into contempt, and the defenders of which fondly imagine that "law and order" is essentially bound up with evictions and rack-rents that are opposed to these outrages upon justice and right is equivalent to a disruption of society and an end of government.

WHAT CAREY'S WIDOW SAYS.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—The widow of Carey the informer says she will prove that her husband was not the first to inform the government of the conspiracy of Parnell and his associates, and that he only turned informer when he found that all was known without his evidence, which was only corroborative.

GRAND OPENING

OF

Ladies Garments!

AT

The New York Cash Store

For the Fall and Winter trade of '88. We have for the past few days been opening our

FALL AND WINTER GARMENTS

From one of the largest manufacturers of these goods in the world. They will be all ready and on sale at our cloak and shawl room on the Milwaukee street side of our store on Tuesday Morning, September 18th.

It is well understood by the people of this city and southern Wisconsin, that last year we carried the finest and largest stock of garments of any house in the State, and did the leading made to fine garments in this city. That every one knows also. This season we propose leading made to fine garments in this city. We have to do the same thing right over, only we propose to do just double what we did last year. We have to start in on double the stock that we had last season and have marked them at a very low price. We do not propose to wait until late in the season to reduce the price, but have done it right from the start. Parties that intend purchasing garments this season will find the assortment much better than late in the season and the prices just as low. Our stock of Light Colored Dolmans, Black Beaver Dolmans, Plush Dolmans, Heavy Silk Linings, Vests, Jackets, and all the latest styles of garments are cordially invited to call and examine our stock. The entire people of the state are cordially invited to call and examine our stock. Parties reading in Milwaukee and Chicago visiting friends in this city are especially invited to call and examine our stock and they will see at once that they save 25 per cent by buying their garments of us instead of buying them at home. It is a well known fact that we had the only good stock of garments in this city last year of these sizes. This year we have doubled our stock from the same celebrated manufacturer that we had last year of these fine garments. We can fit any man from 4 to 14 years in this class of goods. Our line is very full and complete. September 18, 1883.
